

Put a Focus on Interactivity

Little questions and activities can make an enormous difference in your presentation. Involving your audience will help your presentation and the ideas and thoughts that you are trying to get across more memorable and make attendees feel like they are part of the conversation. Consider working one of the suggestions below in your presentation.

Utilize a web-based poll in your presentation that attendees can access using their smartphones and/or laptops. We have listed several free options below for you to review.

Use a couple of your slides as quick “quizzes”, ask the audience to answer, or fill in the blanks in your slides.

Perform a demo and have an audience member participate in it.

Divide your audience into small groups to discuss the topic among themselves and share with the larger group afterwards.

Take time at the end of your presentation to ask your audience to share their experience about the topic.
